Will Reply.

A. J. Hatch informs the Reno Journal that he intends to reply to the article which appeared in the Reno Gazette headed "Nevada and Oregon," and which he states does him great injustice. He further says: "The Virginia Chronicle of the 8th instant contains an article on the same subject; under its sub-head, 'wheel within wheel,' appears a statement which I denounce as being almost totally false. As soon as I have time to compile the voluminous correspondence of Thomas Moore and other papers, I propose to ventilate some of the proceedings of the Nevada and Oregon Railroad contractor and his company, which are not generally known outside of Reno."

Received Sentence.

John Maguire, the embezzling mail agent, yesterday received sentence, Judge Sawyer giving him two years at hard labor in San Quentin, Cal. In view of the seriousness of the offense, Maguire no doubt considers himself in luck in receiving so light a sentence. He told a friend the other day that he expected to get about five years. The only excuse we have heard offered for him is that for a long time prior to his detection he was in a state of continued intoxication, from which he did not recover until after he was lodged in jail.

Converted.

At a spiritual seance at a private residence in this city, on Wednesday night, where nine ladies were present, eight of them fainted at the sight of a materialized spirit. The ninth, more venturesome than the rest, essayed to grasp the apparition, and it slipped through her fingers, whereupon she also fainted. All who were present at this seance are now said to be confirmed believers.

$500 Reward.

Governor Kinkead offers a reward of $500 for the apprehension of Jeff Morse, the murderer of Henry Isabel, at Deeth's station, on September 25, 1881, who has recently been indicted by the Elko county Grand Jury for the crime.

Fannie Louise Buckingham will appear at the Opera House about the close of this month. A little less than a year ago this actress was here and one of her support was the late Lincoln D. Wright, the artist, so well known in this community.

Watches! Watches! Watches! Every make. Every kind. Silver, gold and nickel. Every watch sold guaranteed, or no sale. Save money and buy them of the square dealing house of Uncle Harris, 221 Kearny, between Bush and Sutter streets, San Francisco.

Expensive Oyster Stews.

Yesterday afternoon a number of gentlemen were relating their war experiences in Thaxter's drug store, and among others, Dr. Lee told an anecdote illustrative of the awful tumble Confederate money took after the capture of Mobile. He was one of the victorious army, and on the march became possessed of $350 in Confederate currency. After the city had capitulated he and a fellow soldier were about passing an oyster saloon, when their eyes were greeted by a sign, reading, "Confederate money taken here." It was a long time since the two had had a fresh oyster stew, and the Doctor thought that he could not make a better investment of a part of his Confederate capital than to purchase a stew each for himself and friend. They entered the saloon and were informed by the proprietor that he was still doing business on the same basis as when the sign was first placed in front of his door. This was satisfactory to the two Yankees, and the stews were accordingly served and eaten. The Doctor then walked up to the counter, laid his roll of $350 Confederate money, and sixty-five cents in silver, all the money he had, on the same, and suggested to the attendant to take whichever he wished. The roll of notes were counted by the latter, who swept both paper and silver into a drawer, with the remark, "Gentlemen, that just makes it right." It is safe to state that no other person in this city ever paid $350.65 as the price for two oyster stews.

IN BRIEF.

Stocks were somewhat firmer yesterday.

Severe colds are prevailing among our people.

Dwelling house rents in this city are becoming very low.

The express train was an hour late yesterday morning.

T. B. Winston has recovered from his late severe illness.

The Mint will be engaged on gold coinage to-day.

Three out of every five houses at Empire are unoccupied.

Virginia City has grown wildly enthusiastic over Sheridan's acting.

The Junior Hose Company will have a party at the Opera House to-night.

Ormsby Lodge No. 4, A. O. U. W., will have a dance and supper Thanksgiving night.

The Alvin Joslin Company carry their own scenery with them, and is said to be the finest on the road.

The Governor yesterday commissioned E. L. Seitz as a Notary Public, to reside at Lewis, Lander county.

J. R. Bigler left in a wagon drawn by four horses for California last night, where he will take up his permanent residence.

The Steamboat and Reno ditch case came up before the United States Circuit Court yesterday, and was taken under advisement.

The people of Genoa feel confident that the mines in their vicinity will at no distant day restore the former prosperity of their town.

Governor Kinkead believes that in a year or a little more, Candelaria and vicinity will be the most prosperous mining section of the State.

E. Niles, of the Virginia Chronicle, dropped in on us last evening. He looks as fat as ever—if anything a little heavier, with winter clothes on.

At a Public Administrator's sale yesterday seventy shares of Baltimore stock, the mine being located in Storey county, sold for twenty-five cents.

It is estimated that during the winter nearly two hundred casks full of sauerkraut is consumed in this city. That accounts for so much bad German being spoken.

The mother of Senator Jones is lying dangerously ill at her residence at Gold Hill. It is feared that the Senator will scarcely be able to get home in time to see her alive.

In the District Court yesterday motion was made to open default in the case of Hatch vs. N. and O. R. R. Co. Continued until to-day, in consequence of attorneys being engaged in the U. S. Court.

It cured my cold—Ammen's Cough Syrup.

BILL NYE'S BUDGET.

A Humorous Sketch of Journalism on the Frontier.

Those who are not accustomed to the playful and frolicsome style of conducting a newspaper on the frontier are apt to think that the natural result of such little expressions of high regard as are made by rival journals in relation to each other must be a front-yard full of new made graves, and a large and enthusiastic funeral. It is often a wonder to many to see for the first time the choice epithets fragrant, familiar expressions made use of by opposing newspapers, that there is not a more frightful mortality among editors in the West. It is true that journalists west of the Missouri River do sometimes die violent deaths, but very rarely from each other's hands. They do not welter in each other's gore oftener than once a week, as a general rule. Death to the Western editor is more frequently caused by old age or hunger than anything else. They are also sometimes hung by an enraged populace. But out of all our newspaper acquaintances, so far, we cannot call to mind one who has been killed by a fellow journalist. Most every one who is at times termed by his rivals an escaped horse thief, knows that it is not true, or at least hopes to outlive any such charge as that, and cheerfully calls his rival a grave-robbing, and thus turns popular attention away from himself, while at the same time he adds to the interest of his paper, and subscribers to his list. Some think that Western journals are too spicy in this way, and there is too much vigor about this style of conducting a newspaper; but we hardly think so. So long as there are no lives lost, and the editorial fraternity live to a good old age, we do not see that there need be any kicking about it. Those who now enter our office with a wild look of apprehension, need not be alarmed. We have not killed any one who adhered to the etiquette for several weeks. Since the cold weather came on we have been struggling to overcome that fiendish thirst for human life, and those who come in here now with a view towards the promotion of friendly relation will be as safe as they would be at their own firesides. The death rate in our office for the past six months is low. We may run a man through the power-press by mistake once in a while, or to kick a bore under the stove and cook him, but we have resolved that human life will not hereafter be sacrificed unless it is absolutely unavoidable.

A Woman's Age.

A case has just been decided before the Appeal Court at Metz, which shows how a lady's age is a matter entirely within her own control. Fraulein Catherine Mahl was engaged to a desirable partner, to whom she had imprudently declared her age at six years less than it really was. As soon as the moment arrived for producing the certificate of birth, she was aware that her little deception would be discovered, and she feared that the match would be broken off. She therefore took the liberty of altering the official document, so as to make it correspond with the statement already made. The ceremony took place and the husband was duly united to a lady whom he believed to be quite a jeune ingenue. Unfortunately, the certificate, in passing through some office, happened to be minutely examined by one of the clerks. The bride was charged with the offense of falsifying a public document, and condemned to spend, if not her honeymoon, at least three of the first months of her married life, in prison. She had the courage to appeal from the sentence, and cause the case to be argued out before the court at Metz, which reversed the decision of the inferior tribunal, and acquitted the lady on the ground that she did not intend to commit an illegal act, but had been actuated only by "female vanity."

The Star Route Trials.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—In the Criminal Court this morning Judge Cox rendered a decision in the Star route cases, discussing principally the question as to the infamy of the crime charged. The conclusion arrived at was that the crime was infamous, and the accused should have been proceeded against by indictment. He therefore sustained the motion expelling the information from the files of the court, and ordered the discharge of the defendants.

Wood for Sale.
I will sell wood, as good, and even better, than any in Carson, two-thirds red fir limbs, and one-third split yellow-pine (mixed) at $7 per cord. A reduction of fifty cents will be allowed to parties taking five cords or more at one time. I have also a quantity of nut-pine and cedar, which I will sell at proportionately low figures. Terms strictly cash on delivery.
D. CIRCE.

Ministers use Ammen's Cough Syrup.
Ask for Ammen's Cough Syrup.

Everybody that has tried Ammen's Cough Syrup, continues to use it, besides they tell their neighbors of it. We were in a drug store the other day when a customer asked for a bottle of Ammen's Cough Syrup, saying "I do not know anything about it myself, but my neighbor advised me to buy it for my cold, and tells me that the use of three bottles has entirely cured his cough of two years standing, in fact he says it is the best medicine in the world for coughs, colds and lung complaints," and that a one-dollar bottle did him more good than all the prescriptions he had from the doctors."

M. W. Hodkins, at the Glove Depot, opposite the Arlington House, has just received a large and fine stock of gloves and mitts for gents, ladies and children of the latest styles. Best assortment and lowest prices in the State. Hand-sewed buck gloves a specialty. Also, men's buckskin underwear, socks, suspenders, etc.
